1. It is clear that TTIC is not a classic DDI production committee. The DCI and DDCI established TTIC as a NFIC rather than a NFIB Committee, primarily to ensure that it had the proper membership (i.e., Justice, Commerce, and OSD) to interact with export control and law enforcement agencies involved in stopping unauthorized and illegal transfers of US technology. Although TTIC sponsors some interagency production, it conducts much day to day community support to the policy agencies concerned with trade and S&T exchanges, and engages in increasing interaction with the counterintelligence organizations. These activities along with TTIC's developing role in the munitions control and defense industrial security areas indicate a broadening responsibility for TTIC in the IC security field. (U)

2. Relationships with the IC Staff are already considerable and growing. The thrust of TTIC's current activities are heavily focused on IC staff functions: the Collection Guidance Working Group is working particularly with the Human Resources Committee; the Data Base Working Group will be in liaison with the Information Handling Committee; the TTIC Resources Survey is being reviewed by the Office of Program and Budget Coordination; TTIC is about to become involved with the Office of Planning and the IR&DC Secretariat in a major planning exercise; and we continue to work closely with the Community Counterintelligence Staff. 3. Of those problems identified by [redacted] in moving the Committee, (see reference), the biggest obstacle has to do with positions. The TTIC staff currently employs [redacted] persons, including part-time helpers and nonreimbursable detailees from the FBI, Customs and DoD; the Community's representation on the Staff bespeaks for itself of the TTIC's perceived IC role. But the time and the issue seem right to ask Congress to raise the IC Staff's ceiling to provide the 12-13 positions needed to handle this new responsibility. Certainly, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence has been most interested in encouraging the DCI to move out on this problem and continues to urge the Intelligence Community to increase the resources committed to the high priority technology transfer problem. 4. In my view, the advantages to the Community, to the IC Staff, and to the TTIC staff of such an arrangement would seem to argue for a concerted effort to establish TTIC as an IC staff function. I would hope that this opportunity will be given further consideration. (U)
